

SISTERS OF THE EARTH

What if women had already begun to take action to heal the Earth's wounds? Bound together by values of sisterhood and care, they are undertaking to transform the territories in which they live for the good of their communities... This four episodes documentary series takes us on a journey of discovery of territories in reinvention, from Kenya to India, from the West Indies to Poland, through a prism that is still little-known but is gaining in importance: ecofeminism.
